Organization of American States

The Organization of American States (OAS) brings together the nations of the Western Hemisphere to promote economic development, democracy, strengthen human rights, and foster peace and security. The OAS is the region's principal multilateral forum for political dialogue and collective action.

The OAS is made up of 35 Member States: the independent nations of North, Central and South America and the Caribbean – of which 34 currently actively participate. Nations from other parts of the world participate as Permanent Observers.

The member countries set major policies and goals through the General Assembly, which gathers the hemisphere's ministers of foreign affairs once a year in regular session. The Permanent Council, made up of ambassadors appointed by the Member States, gathers to discuss guidelines on policies and actions.

To put into practice the strategic and political goals established by the political organs, six Secretariats coordinate the efforts of the OAS in specialized areas; Multidimensional Security, Political Affairs, Executive Secretariat for Integral Development, External Relations, Administration and Finance and Legal Affairs.

Food Security with Sovereignty

The drama of hunger and food insecurity and, in great measure, their causes and effects, make up part of the complexities of globalization. This external factor that affects food security is outside the control of national governments and leads to concerns over state sovereignty.

The progressive increase in food prices and their continued volatility threaten the progress that has been made in food security all over the world and particularly in the Americas, increasing the risk of higher levels of poverty. This situation requires the implementation of productive and re-distributive long term policies aimed at the permanent strengthening of food security, inclusive, local and productive development, and the effective realization of the right to food in our hemisphere.

In this context, the Member States in Cochabamba will debate, among other issues, how to guarantee the right to adequate nutrition independently of other social rights; how to implement integral systems of social protection in a coordinated manner with policies for the increase of capacities and local development; and how to strengthen agro-food markets and social and economic inclusion from a socially sustainable development perspective.

*"Food Security with Sovereignty" is the theme chosen by Bolivia and supported by the Member States as the central axis of the debates of the 42nd OAS General Assembly.

Secretary General

José Miguel Insulza

José Miguel Insulza was elected OAS Secretary General on May 2, 2005, and reelected March 24, 2010. The Chilean politician has an accomplished record of public service in his country. At the beginning of his five-year term as Secretary General, he pledged to strengthen the Organization's "political relevance and its capacity for action."

A lawyer by profession, he has a law degree from the University of Chile, did postgraduate studies at the Latin American Social Sciences Faculty (FLACSO), and has a master's in political science from the University of Michigan. Until 1973, he was Professor of Political Theory at the University of Chile and of Political Science at Chile's Catholic University. He also served, until that year, as Political Advisor to the Chilean Ministry of Foreign Affairs and Director of the Diplomatic Academy of Chile. He became involved in politics during his student years and served as Vice President of the Student Association of the University of Chile (FECH), President of the Center for Law Students of the University of Chile and President of the Chilean National Union of Students of University Federations of Chile (UFUCH).

In the early 1970s, Insulza played an active role in Salvador Allende's Popular Unity government and, following the coup that brought General Augusto Pinochet into power, he went into exile for 15 years, first in Rome (1974-1980) and then in Mexico (1981-1988). In Mexico City, he was a researcher and then Director of the United States Studies Institute in the Center for Economic Research and Teaching (CIDE). He also taught at Mexico's National Autonomous University, the Ibero-American University, and the Diplomatic Studies Institute.

Insulza was able to return to Chile in early 1988 and joined the Coalition of Parties for Democracy, the coalition that won the plebiscite against the Pinochet regime in October of that year. A member of the Socialist Party, he has held numerous high-level posts in several Coalition governments.

Under the presidency of Patricio Aylwin, Insulza served as Chilean Ambassador for International Cooperation, Director of Multilateral Economic Affairs at the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and Vice President of the International Cooperation Agency.

In March 1994, under the administration of President Eduardo Frei, Insulza became Under-Secretary of Foreign Affairs and in September of that year was appointed Minister of Foreign Affairs. In 1999, he became Minister Secretary General of the Presidency, and the following year he became President Ricardo Lagos's Minister of the Interior and Vice President of the Republic. When he left that post in May 2005, he had served as a government minister for more than a decade, the longest continuous tenure for a minister in Chilean history.

Insulza was born June 2, 1943, and is married to Georgina Nuñez Reyes. They have three children: Francisca, Javier and Daniel.

Assistant Secretary General
Albert R. Ramdin

Ambassador Albert Ramdin, a citizen of Suriname, has a long and distinguished career in public service at the international, hemispheric, regional and national levels. He was first elected as Assistant Secretary General of the Organization of American States (OAS) on June 7, 2005 and was re-elected by acclamation to a second term on March 24, 2010.

Prior to his election he served as Ambassador at Large and Special Adviser to Government of the Republic of Suriname on Western Hemispheric Affairs.

In 1997, Albert Ramdin was appointed Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary and Permanent Representative to the OAS. Between January and March of 1998 he chaired the OAS Permanent Council. In 1999, Ambassador Ramdin chaired the Inter-American Council for Integral Development and on that same year he was also appointed to serve concurrently as Suriname's non-resident Ambassador to Costa Rica. Also in 1999, Ambassador Ramdin joined the CARICOM Secretariat as Assistant Secretary-General for Foreign and Community Relations, where he was responsible for the coordination of the foreign policy of CARICOM and the strengthening of relations among its member states. A strong supporter of building alliances with other regional integration movements and economic groupings in the hemisphere, Ambassador Ramdin played a leading role in strengthening relations with the Central American Integration System and the Andean Community, thereby contributing to increased cooperation between CARICOM and these organizations. In 2001, Ambassador Ramdin was appointed Adviser to the OAS Secretary General, where he continued his close engagement with the situation in Haiti, dealt with small states' issues, and monitored the hemispheric trade agenda.

For the last 10 years, Ambassador Ramdin has dedicated a great deal of time and effort to helping the people and government of Haiti build and consolidate peace and stability in their country. In order to ensure a more effective and coordinated OAS policy and service delivery to the Government of Haiti, Ambassador Ramdin established and chairs the OAS Haiti Task Force (HTF) as a mechanism for cooperation on policy, programs and financial contributions and management among Member States, the Inter-American system, the international financial institutions and with the United Nations System.

As Assistant Secretary General of the OAS, one of his primary objectives is to guide the institution into a broader and more structured global dialogue and cooperation, whereby the OAS can share with other regions the organization's long-standing experience in peace-building, democratization, as well as in development and competitiveness.
