ABOUT CULLEN

Cullen International tracks, analyses and benchmarks regulation in four sectors – telecommunications, media, digital economy, and postal - covering developments across Europe, Americas, the Middle East and North Africa. Our cross-sectoral Competition Law service complements our regulatory expertise, following cases at EU and national levels

For over thirty years, Cullen International has been providing comprehensive, neutral, unbiased, timely information that is trusted by industry and official institutions alike. Cullen International is widely recognized as the leading regulatory intelligence provider in the field.

The Secretary General of the Organization of American States (SG/OAS) reserves the right to cancel this scholarship announcement at any time during the process. The OAS, SG/OAS and its staff are not responsible for any action linked in any way with the information in this announcement.

ABOUT CITEL

The Inter-American Telecommunication Commission (CITEL) is an entity of the Organization of American States established by the General Assembly in its resolution AG/RES. 1224 (XXIII-O/93), in keeping with Article 52 of the Charter of the Organization. CITEL has technical autonomy in the performance of its functions, within the limits of the Charter of the Organization, the Statute of CITEL, and such mandates as the General Assembly of the Organization may assign to it.

Contributing to the region's economic and social development is the objective of all elements of the work of CITEL, whether it is coordinating the rules needed to facilitate infrastructure deployment and telecommunication service delivery; harmonization of the radio frequency spectrum to reduce the cost of providing wireless services; information and communication technology (ICT) training; or helping countries devise telecommunication development strategies.
